

Women in Business Dinner Brings Together Top Female Business Leaders

3rd May 2011

May 5th marks the first in a new series of events aimed at bringing together top female business leaders from across the UK. The Women in Business Dinner is the brainchild of Maxxim Consulting, a leader amongst the UK's new breed of innovative strategic consultancy firms, who want to create a forum for the UK's leading women to build new relationships whilst exchanging their ideas and experiences in a relaxed, open environment.

The event will take place at Scott's of Mayfair, with guests from a wide range of industries and backgrounds including Moya Green, CEO of Royal Mail, Caroline Tapster, CEO of Hertfordshire County Council, and Rebecca Skitt, Director of HR for Barclay's Global Retail Bank. The theme for the first dinner is "What's it like being a female CEO on both sides of the Atlantic". Moya Green, who has held roles at Canada Post and now at the Royal Mail Group, has kindly agreed to kick off the discussion with a few observations of her own.

Claire Arnold, a founding partner at Maxxim, said "What we want to do is provide a regular event where women in business can get together and discuss the challenges of the day over a glass of wine in a relaxed atmosphere. We're extremely excited about the fantastic reaction we've already had from remarkable women across a broad range of industries". According to Arnold "We want the Women in Business Dinner to become a landmark event in the business calendar. Our goal is to create a platform for sharing fresh ideas, providing insights and the bringing together of top female business leaders and thinkers from across the country".
